A recent discovery has brought to light the fact that the Jaws ars very numerus in Chiua. A Jawish officer in the British y estimates them at one million. It was nere accident that this community of Oriental Cuinn Jews se discovered. The officer referred to went up one of their rivers, and observed a large town or city. He was not at first cordially received; bnt, finally obtainiog an interview with the chief, be landed under his protection, and found, to his astonishment, an immense population of Jews.

THE CLIMATE OF THE Taopics .- Richard Burfon, the traveller, in a letter to the London Times, gives some particulars about the climate in Africa. Here was his first experience at Fernando Pn:

When I landed at Fernando Po, in September, 1860, Santa Isabel, the harbor town, was the only settlement of the new Spanish Pallid men were to be seen altting languid in their verandahs, or occasionall crawling about the grassy streets, each with a cigarette hanging to the lower lip. My lodgings being unpleasantly near a military hospital, the breakfast fable was frequently enlivened by the spectacls of something covered with a blanket being carried in, and something within a deal box being carried out on four men's shoulders. The Europeans ed persistently in the dry season from November to April. After three years' service, young linesmen, only forty-seven returned to Spain, the rest being either invalided or baving fallen victims to the climate. The rains witnessed the de-truction of the negro liberados and the ex-Euglish colonists. At length, In March, 1862, yellow fever, the gift of the monny River, fell upon us, two mouths swept off seventy-eight a grand total of two hundred and fifty

On the mountains, however, the climate

Already the Fathers of the Jesuit Mission had built an our station at Bauapa, a native village about two direct miles from tha haror, and five buildred feet above sea level. During the last three years the principal, S may still be seen working in his garden as alert and vigorous as though he had never left the natale solum. The example of the lathers was presently followed by Major Noeli White. In 1862, when Her Mejesty's ship Griffin, Commander Perry, touched at this given the contract of the contr island two of her efficers, young and power ful men, were pro-traced by coast fever; they were carried up in bannacks to Major White's lumber cortages at Banapa, and in less than a week they walked down the hill convalescents. As Banaps abounds in sandemploye of the Woods and Forests, preerred a higher site, where he also built for himself a hungalow of boarding at a place which be justly called "Buena Vista."

The inference is that at Fernando Po folks who object to dying must live at least five hundred feet above the aca level.

Similar facts are releted in regard to India. In a notice of Colonel Walter Campbell's la'ely published "Indian Journal," the London Review pays:

Everybody knows that the plains of Sonthern India are broaded over by an atmosphere balf vapor, balf file, in which Europeans wither away till they look like the ghosts of of this torrid region, urises a system of mounwhich, from the hues they present when con-templated from below, have been called Blua Heights. THURSDAY, JULY 28, 1864.

The death of curfriend, the Hon. Gib-Mallory, the details of which terrible ocence will be found elsewhere in onr mns this morning, has shocked the entire mnnity. No man was better known or e highly appreciated for his largeness of t and for all those generous impulses ch make up the true gentleman. Late Tuesday evening, he was in our office, the full finsh of robust heelth, and ing in the most senguine manner to the carly termination of the icidel strnggle which he so much ored, and against which he so resoely lent bis powerful voice and influence. ten o'clock he was the victim, doubtless, an assassin, though it is probable that the atity of his murderer and the motive for deed will always be shrouded in mystery. was snmmoned to his long account sudly; but, if honesty of purpose, inflexible egrity, devotion to friends and country, d a high and chivalrio sense of personal nor, are the attributes which plead before mercy-seat, we may hope that he

And as to the furnishing f the sinews of war, the collector of Internal levenue, for the third district of onr State, as just certified that the sum of $191,821,13 wse peid in during the month of June. This, or but the one collective district, is nearly qual to one-fourth of the entire net revenue ollected for State purposes. The valuation of the texable property of Kentucky has de reased nearly forty per cent since the rebellon broke out, and our population has been ecreased by expatriation, but still all calls for mere men and more money have been met. This challenge which "Occasional" ventures to put forth has been induced by the ridicule which the New York papers have heaped upon Pennsylvania, from their snng scenrity, with the Snsquehanna, Delaware, and Hudson rivers between them and the rebel invaslons. He thinks it "one of the most debaslng eigus of the times, when a State that has done as much as Pennsylvania, and bas been constantly called upon to protect her counties from invasion and raids," is made the subject of sneer and falsehood and insolent comparison, and he asks, "is It any wonder that a people thus hurdened and oppressed should become disheartened?" And yet Kentucky, which has had raids and invasion in every county of the State, her capital once in the handa of the rebels, and on another occasion seriously menaced but successfully defended; which has seut a large proportion of her sons to fight the battles of the Union in other States, and has never swerved from her loyalty, has also been the subject of malignant sneers, of diabolical falsehoods, and of Insolent comparisons by Cincinnati and Philadelphia papers, but wo ence which Kenencky makeson every battleield, and we shall never despair of the Retheir labor system, they are subjected to trade regulations, which prevent the receipt of supplies and interdist the export of their staple products, and if not nodified must entirely destroy business dustry in all its branches, but they have not yet "become disheartened." They have lived tbrough three years and more of war, but they remember that in a little over three months the opportunity will be presented to the peoplo of the entire Union to set their eeal of condemnation upon the policy which has so unforunately greatinated the war by diverting it from its legitimate objects. They will not "become disheartened" until they find that

The patriotism of the radicals is graded by a metre of self-interest; the larger contracts shoddy can obtain, the greater favore cringing papers can receive, and the more rapid promotion shoulder-straps can hopo to achieve, the more intense is their patriotism, and the more anconditional Lincoln men they become. Now we are for Mr. Lincoln first, last, and all the time in every constitutional and efficient effort to put down the rebellion and restore the supremacy of the laws, yet our ideas of patriotism teach us that the servants of the people are amenable to the people and the laws, that every effort to exercise arbitrary power should be resisted by every constitutional means, and that while we are giving onr blood and treasure for the preservation of the government, we must jealously guerd egainst all infrirgment apon the constitution, the rock upon which all the pillars of government are based.

We are not fighting for slavery. We are fight-supposed fitness of this declaration for the pur-seys of Jeff Davis: "With all his fanits I believe him a man of trnth." It is thus that

Jeff Davis and the secession leaders in general have played into the hands of the abolitionists

from the first, and thus that the abolitionists have acknowledged the favor, until indeed they could manage to reciprocate it in kind, which they have never been clow to do. If this abolition fictionist tells the trnth, he simply furnishes a new and very superfluous illustration of the virtual alliance which cx-iets and has existed throughout between he secussion leaders and the abolitionists.

Jeff Davis knows perfectly well that his only hope of success depends upon the perpetuation of the ascendancy of the abolitionists in the government, and he fancies that such talk may contribute something to the perpetuation of their ascendancy. Besides, apart from all this, if he were even on the verge of despair, and were prepared in a probable contingency to submit to the constitution, he would not be apt to talk differently to such a man as Gilmore

The people rest assured that every effort will be to bring the econndrel to justice.

R TRADE REGULATIONS .- Wo are very to know that many of our prominent nost influential citizens have been deleto represent to General Ewing the very injustice to cur city trade which results the operations of his recent order reing the ingress of goods and produce to city. We can have no doubt that a propor tation of the damaging effects of that er will induce General Ewing to modify it. re ie no reason why Louisville should be ted as an insurrectionary district, nor is e any justice lu plecing us upon a different ng from Cincinnatl, Evansville, or New any. We claim to be as loyal, and we we have suffered more for our loyalty. le we are daily sufferers at the hands of enemies and the cnemies of our country, very hard that we should also be reined in our business transactions by our nds, and ent eff from all commercial interrso with the outer world.

UERRILLAS NEAR MIDDLETOWN .- The gneds are becoming quite bold. Jefforson reda with a boldness that is really ishing. We are informed that twenty of marauders were hovering yesterday in the inity of Middletown, on the Frankfort for the arowed purpose of capturing stragldiers and loyal citizens connected the Government. The sconndrels did seem to fear the advance of Federal troops. wero confident in their ability to elude ursuit. The country is being scoured by cavelry, and we sincerely hope that the d confidence of the thieves may prove ir own destruction. Wo would rejoice to r of their capture. Before this statement ill meet the public eye, wo are assured that aspres will be carried ont that will drive, the time being, the bold marauders from connty.

In onr issue of the 23d instant, we ve the particulars of the raid on Boston by arty of thieves, and said that we were inmed that the store of one of the merchanta the villege was not molested by the gang. d accessed him of being in sympathy with robbers. Wo have since learned that the rchent's namo is J. D. Perryman. He led on ns yesterday, and claimed that onr rsgraph did him great injustice. He says t ho is a Union man, and, as such, does not pathize with guerillas and horse-thleving ogs. He also saye, that, on two occasions. store was broken open by marauders, and ode and money stolen therefrom. We give the benefit of this statement.

TH IOWA VETERANS .- The 10th Iswa y volnnteers, Lientenant-Colonel P.P. dereon commanding, passed through our yesterday. The number of veterans in regiment is about three hundred, who are w on their way to the front, having enjoyed furlough in Iowa.

REBEL PRISONERS .- Twelve deserters from bel army and two prisoners of war arcity yesterday on the early mornin from Nashville. Twenty-two rebel soners were received at the Military Prison Tuesday night from Lexington.

A RUMOBED TRAGEDY .- The city was full of rumere last night, but we could not trace them to any reliable sources. One report, which was reported by responsible parties, was that Dr. Gilpin left the city io the morning to avoid arrest by the military authorities. twas learned during the day that he had gone o the house of a Mr Trabuc, residing four ni'es from the city. The Doctor is known to ne a rehel in politica, and, sometime age, he was arrested and confined in the Military Prison. As soon as beedquarters were dvised of his whereabouts in the country, n Lieutenant, with a detail of four men, was sent ont with orders to arrest and bring him inder guard to the city. The Doctor was found, but refused to be arrested. He said that he had been confined in the Military Prison once, and would not be taken back to t alive. The Lientenant endesvored to cnforce the order, when the Doctor drew a pistol and shot him dead. The four soldiers then fired upon the Dector, riddling his body with balls. He fell and immediately expired. Such is the rumor, and as such we give it.

GUERILLAS AT HAWESVILLE, KY .- THE Town Shelled by the Gunboats.—We learn that a party of some seventy-five or eighty gnerillas entered Hawesville, Kontucky, on Monday night, and at once commenced robbing citizens, and committing the usual outrages which have made them a terror to the people along the border. Tuesday morning ately commenced shelling it, which compelled the guerillas to decamp in hot haste. They went to Cloverport, where they are reported to have robbed the storcs and carried off such plander as they wanted. The gunhoat coming up, its officers learned the gang had left for Stephensport, and immediately left for that place. But the gnerillas teat her, and had succeeded in committing a number of rohberies, and escaping with their coty, before her nrrival. The gnnboat anchored in the stream in front of Stephensort, with the intention of lying there dur-

GUERILLAS IN INGIANA .- On Tuesday night, gang of twenty-five guerillas crossed the Obio river from Kentucky to Indians, three miles from West Point, and robbed the Hoosiere of a large amount of property. A gentleman by the name of Ross lost in goods and money over nine hundred dollars. Great excitement was produced along the horder by ng in the road, armed with a short gan | this bold raid, and the Home Guards were rallying to the defence of their homes. We nnderstand that the marauding gang is being hnnted down with great vigor, and but very few of the scoundrels will escape the punishment they so richly deserve. The thickes will find it decidedly unprofitable to raid on the Indiana side of the river.

CROPS-THE WART OF RAIN .- A letter dated Fairview, Todd connty, Kentneky, July 25 gives a dolcful view of the crops in that see tion of the State. The writer says that almost a drought now prevails. Corn is suffering very much for rain, and, if the ground is not moistened by refreshing showers within the next few days, the crop will prove a failure. Tobacco is in a backward condition. There is not over one-third of the eprout standing compared with usual crops. Many of the plants are no larger than they should have been in May. New German Paper .- The first number of the Daily Cumberland Jonnal, the new Germen paper started at Nashville, has been iesued. It is a sheet of good size, nentral in politics, published in fino style, and contain a large amount of local and miscellaneou ews. Mr. Carl Benno Zander, the publisher i the paper, is now in the city canvassing th merits of the Jonanal. The enterprise is deserving of success, and we would be pleased to learn of the Journal obtaining a good cir. culation in Lonisville.

The New Albany Ledger is informe that steamboats will not be allowed to lan at Stephensport or Cloverport, Ky., unless. gnnboat is lying off those towns. The gas rillas in that section are just now nousualt active, and s'eamboats run considerable risk in landing at any of the Kentucky towns batween this city and Owensboro. Roving bands of gnerillas, numbering generally from twenty-five to seventy-five men, are swarm ing along the border, and there is no telling to-day where they mny bo to-morrow.

DAN CASTELLO'S GREAT SHOW .- This popnar circus company, having achieved a triamphant success at Cincinnati, have now turned their faces toward the South again, and intend giving a series of their entertainments in this city next week. Tho great horse Czar, and the other animals, biped and quadruped, aro in perfect health, and "are eeger for the fray." For further particulars we refer our readers to the members of the 'paste brigade" about onr streets.

A correspondent Informs the Indianapolis Journal that a certain brigade of General Balrd's division, before tho cnemy at Kencsaw Monntain, shelled the moon quite vigoronely for half an hour, under the impression that it was a rebel fire, and only discovered the error when the moon peoped above the brow of the monntain. We have heard of dogs baying the moon, but did not know before that "dogs of war" were up to such tricks.

DEATH OF A PROSTITUTE.-Kate Brown, one of the frail occupants of that den of prostitution kept by Julia Dean, on Tnesday night, through a mistake, swallowed an over-dose of landannm which produced her death. An inquest was held over her body yesterday morning, and a verdict rendered in accordance with the above facts.

Borland, 27th Wisconsin, and Samuel Enochs, 2d Indiana cavalry, have BOUREON AND RAW WHISKEY. all been honorably discharged from the service on account of physical disability.

Edward Hamilton, of Bracken county, Kentucky, and James Glandon, of Covingtoo, were lodged in the Military Prison of the latter place on Tnesday. The former is charged with bushwhacking and mail robbery, and the latter with disloyalty.

A. W. Thomas and Benjamin Lagel, two notorious gnerillas, woro yesterday forwarded to Lexington, to be tried hy the military commission.

Ninetcen women of secesh proclivities, ecently received from the front, were sent acrose the Ohio river yesterday to remain during the war.

Major Young furnishes the New Albeny Ledger with the following particulars in regard to the deeth of Major-General Mc Pherson: The General had ridden from laft to righ The General had ridden from laft to right in superintending the advance of his skir mish line, and was returning again to the right, when a party of rebel bushwharker in ambush, ran from their covert between 11 16th and 17th corps, crying out, "There the come; give them hell!" and fired. A counse of staff officers and two orderlies accompated the General, all of whom escapated the General, who fell and expiral almost instantly, the ball having cut the aorts. The enemy rushed forward to risk and the third the control of the heady. Officers and orderlies meet the heady. Officers and orderlies meet the heady. Inspector-General, and Cabull, toth of Gen. SIMPSON COUNTY, KV, July 25, 1861. To the Editors of the Louisville Journal: Now that statesmen are at Niagara talking of peace, let an old farmer make a few snc-yestions upon this subject, which of all subjects is certainly the most interesting.

One of the principal difficulties in restoring e Union as it was will arise from the debts the Office as it was will arise from the decision which have been contracted by the Northern section in suppressing the rebellion—by the Sonthern section in their efforts to set up for themselves and to repel what they called an themselves and to repel what they called an invasion of their country. Owing to the intense sectional feeling which has been engendered and intensified by this sectional war, these debts can never be made national. The North will not like to pay the debt of the Southern rebels; the Seuth will not like to pay the debt contracted by the North in their effort at coercion. What disposition is to be made of these debts? Repudiation will not do—'twill bankrupt the country. Then how are these dehts to be paid? Let oach section have absolute control of its own peculiar wardeht, i. e., the debt arising directly out of this war. Let the ordinary expenses of the Gancral Government be mot, as they were before rsl Government be mot, as they were before he war, by import duties, &c. Let the States of the sections divide or apportion the debts mong themselves and impose a direct tax to buy them entire, or such part as may be agreed upon. Let there he some national arrency upon a proper basis, designed event-ally to supersede throughout the whole try that now in existence. This is a plain, common-sense principle npon hich this difficulty of the dehts can be settled. iplomatists would look npon our difficulties being very complicated. Not so with

HOW THE NORTH WAGES WAR AGAINS THE SCUTII—DECLARATIONS OF NORTHERN GENERALS.—We have often had occasion to draw e attention of our readers to the acts of vio il by the hireling troops of the North; y msy be safely eaid that we have related by n infinitesimal portion of the bloody record of their atrecities. The future historian will and before him a task for which words are scarcely adequate. His blood will boil, and his eyes flash with indignation, as he peruses his eyes hash with indignation, as he pernses the documents which will hand the Northern Government down to posterity as the incarnation of all that is base, and crual, and blocd-thirety. Years hence, that portion of the history of the present American war which relates to the alrocities of the Northern troops will cause the cheek of the maiden to grow red with ehame or blanch with terror, and will stir the soul of the youth to its ror, and will stir the soul of the youth to its ulmost depths as he reads of the cruel wrongs umest deputs as ne read of the cruel wrongs and harbsrous treatment to which his ancestors were interested. These deeds of atrocity—those acts of murder, theft, and inst—havo kindled a flame in the breasts of the Southern people which will only cease to hum when the vital spark itself has fled. Nor will one generation see it extinguished. The gray-haired and war-worn grandsire will te the horrid tate with tremulous lips to the prattling child which site npon his kncc; and prattling child which site npon his kncc; and the young will foster and cherish the hitter enmity of their parents toward a people who have come to be abhorred and despised by every civilized nation in christendom.

Every day witnesses the committal of fresh or met—of surther entrages upon our common humsnity. Only think of our homes being invoced and pillaged; our mothers, sicters, wives, ill-treated; our lands laid waste, and our preperty destroyed, and we may beter realize how the North is prosecuting this nuholy war. Nor need we blame the private soldier selely. Far worse is his master. wat. Not need we diame the private soldier selely. Far worse is his master What man in the Northern ranks could equal in villany a Butler or a Turchin?
